About This Game

While searching for a missing jetliner, you crash land on the same island it crashed on. Can you survive long enough on your limited supplies and locate a way to signal for help? Can you discover the reason that Flight 732 went missing?

First Person Shooter with elements of survival. Explore the island to locate items that you can create a makeshift signal radio signal for rescue. In the meantime, find weapons to defend yourself from the inhabitants. Your water supply is limited so you must hurry to discover the secrets of Flight 732.

Not a very good game. Very laggy, even on low settings. Controls are clunky and annoying. I would not recommend.. Really enjoyed it!! It's a good game, but I couldn't complete it after 5 or so tries; water was always an issue and I would dehydrate on my way up the mountain. Over all a great development though!. This game looked like a great survival game, but it isn't the controls are clunky everything is laggy and it just has many errors.. I played for around 20 minutes and here what I have to say (will play more)

Its pretty good for a small indie game with decent graphics but heres what I dislike about it though enemies attack to fast dealing ~8dmg per hit and 1 hit every .5-7 seconds and it normally takes about 4-5 hits to take one down making it pretty difficult

when I go against new enemys I want to see something very diffrents so heres what Im thinking

-Make it with each new enemy (ex zombies, wolfs, ect.) make it do something that would catch you off guard.

-add background music or something because it gets pretty boring after a few min of just listening making me want to take out my phone to listen to some music while playing or watch youtube while playing

-make it where you "level up" after you kill enemys, keep in mind that this is a small game so you dont need to make it have levels 1-50 or something I think something simple like 5 stat bars

Strength

Energy

(you get what I mean) and maybe make it multiplayer. It can be troublesome to make it multiplayer because of servers and all that but I think that will get the game some more traction but it will also mean you will need to update it more and more matinece. I think you should also add in a building prospect to make it Rust or The Forset-like and where there will be pvp but instead of tons of people on the same server but because you have a smaller map make it have 8-10 people per multiplayer game. Its a small game and im planning on playing it some more after Im done with this review but its pretty good for a 1$ game actually I half-expected for it to be one of those cheep games made to be bad.
